

“IDEA-Line Contact Information”

Advisers are available to listen and to assist you as you question and think about career interests in teaching and/or in further study in Interior Design. We all know that when at a crossroads, the assistance of another is most helpful.

IDEA-Line offers an opportunity to contact one of nine individuals listed below. These individuals are interior designers, faculty and/or administrators; they bring a wealth of knowledge and service to the field with background in higher education, practice, association and regulatory work. As leaders, they come highly recommended by peers. While located in different geographic locations in the United States and Canada, they share a sincere, deep interest in sustaining the future of interior design and interior design education. Each and all have strong networks across education and practice. If you have further questions about their backgrounds, contact Joy H. Dohr, jhdohr@wisc.edu or 608-231-1084.

How It Works:

- Select an adviser and send an e-mail to the person stating your interests in talking with them.
- Arrange a mutual time for a phone conversation that is convenient to both of you.
- Make the call.
- The adviser will be interested in your story, your questions and together you will explore various directions. The adviser might suggest that you contact other individuals once your interests and/or direction are clearer. The adviser can assist in formulating focused questions, areas of your work to feature, and explore options with you.
- The adviser will send a follow up inquiry to see if further questions arise or you might continue to contact the adviser over a period of time as new opportunities unfold.
